TIMOTHY DWIGHT, D.D., LL.D., has written in MEMORIES OF YALE LIFE AND MEN, a book not only of interest to the thousands of Yale graduates scattered throughout the country, but also a book of great interest to a wide class of people who know of the work accomplished by this eminent teacher in many different lines.

It gives us an interesting picture of educational methods years ago, and shows us what the "good old days when I was a boy" used to be, viewed from an undergraduate standpoint in "the Forties."

The book is handsomely illustrated with forty-eight excellent half-tone portraits of Yale Professors, and views of the older and recently completed Yale Buildings.

8vo, $2.50 Net

LETTERS OF A DIPLOMAT'S WIFE

By Mary King Waddington

AS ALREADY announced the selection from Mme. Waddington's letters to her family which have appeared in Scribner's Magazine constitute not more than one-quarter of this book. The writer is the daughter of the late Charles King, President of Columbia College. M. Waddington, whom she married in 1874, was the Ambassador Extraordinary representing France at the Coronation of the Czar and the French Ambassador to England from 1883 to 1893. Mme. Waddington's letters give a remarkably interesting series of portraits and pen pictures of the personages and incidents of her official life during this period. Unconventional, intimate, personal, graphic and witty, these letters have an importance and a distinction which are unique in autobiographical literature.

Illustrated with portraits, views, etc.

8vo, $2.50 net (postage 20c.)

ALSO:—

OLD TESTAMENT CRITICISM AND THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH

By John E. McFadyen, Professor in Knox College, Toronto. $1.50 net
(postage 18 cents).

This book is a popular, a complete, and a truly constructive work. It is the Higher Criticism controversy in a nutshell, and for lay as well as clerical readers. Just what the Higher Criticism is in idea and in detail, just what it has accomplished, and just what is "left" of the Bible may be learned from Prof. McFadyen's pages as they can be learned nowhere else.

NOTE:

That THOMAS NELSON PAGE'S new novel,
"GORDON KEITH," will be published on May 29th.

QUESTIONABLE SHAPES

By WILLIAM DEAN HOWELLS

Author of "The Kentons," etc.

In this new book Mr. Howells once more gives evidence of his infinite charm as a story writer and enters again into the field of some of his earlier work—the ever-attractive region of psychical phenomena. The book is one of a most unusual character—interesting in its mystery and peculiarly affecting in its spiritual side.

Illustrated by W. T. Smedley and Lucius Hitchcock. Uniform with Harper & Brothers' edition of Mr. Howells's Works. Post 8vo, Ornamented Cloth, $1.50.

THE LOVE OF MONSIEUR

By GEORGE GIBBS

Author of "In Search of Mademoiselle."

Not an historical novel, but a romance in the best sense of the word. The hero is a dashing young Frenchman of the court of Louis XIV., who, for reasons of his own, is visiting England incognito. The heroine is a proud and perverse English girl who believes him to be a mere brawling gamester. The real character of the hero is disclosed in a series of romantic adventures on land and sea, which finally lead to the "taming of the shrew" and the winning of her love.

Frontispiece by the Author. Post 8vo, Ornamented Cloth, $1.50.

(Imprint of R. H. Russell)

PERVERTED PROVERBS

By Col. D. STREAMER

Author of "The Baby's Baedeker."

A book of amusing parodies of time-honored proverbs done into comic verse by a writer whose nonsense verses have made a hit. "Still daughters run cheap," "Uneasy lies the tooth that wears a crown," are among the laughable perversions of respectable old proverbs.

Post 8vo, Ornamented Cloth, $1.00

(Imprint of R. H. Russell)

Mice and Men

A beautiful souvenir of Miss Annie Russell in Madeline Lucette Riley's play. It includes faithful reproductions of three drawings in color by Sewell Collins, carefully done on tinted India paper. These three panels make attractive subjects for framing or passe-partout.

In Colored Covers.

Size 6 x 9 inches, 25 cents.

(Imprint of R. H. Russell)

The Sultan of Sulu

By GEORGE ADE

Author of "People You Know," etc.

No living comic opera librettist, with the sole exception of W. S. Gilbert, has written with more real humor than Mr. Ade. The book of his opera, "The Sultan of Sulu," is one of the few pieces of work of its kind that will stand the test of reading. It is here presented in dialogue form.

Illustrated with Eight Full-Page Drawings. Post 8vo, Ornamented Paper Cover, 50 cents.

NOTES IN SEASON.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY have just issued new editions of "The Murder of Delicia," by Marie Corelli, and of A. Conan Doyle's "The Tragedy of Korosko."

THE AMERICAN CODE COMPANY has in press a cheap edition of the Moreing and Neal Code, on which they will make special rates to the trade on advance orders.

THE AMERICAN NEWS COMPANY have made arrangements for a special edition of A. Conan Doyle's startling detective story, "The Hound of the Baskervilles," illustrated by Sidney Paget. It will be issued as No. 35 of The People's Library.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY will publish immediately a volume entitled "Wesley and His Preachers," by G. Holden Pike, author of "Oliver Cromwell and His Times," etc., who in this volume deals specifically with the conquest of Britain by Wesley and his immediate followers. The volume will be fully illustrated with reproductions from paintings and old prints.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish on the 20th inst. the first three volumes of the Centenary edition of Emerson's complete works, which anticipate the celebration of Emerson's one hundredth birthday anniversary on May 25. They will publish shortly "A History of the United States for Secondary Schools," by J. N. Larned, which is planned for use in accordance with the recommendation of the "Committee of Seven," which assigns American history to the fourth year in the high school; also, a "Reader's History of American Literature," by Colonel Thomas Wentworth Higginson, who is assisted in preparing the material for class use by Henry W. Boynton, well known as a writer, critic and teacher.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS publish to-day "Letters of a Diplomat's Wife," by Mme. Mary King Waddington, who gives a remarkably interesting series of portraits and pen pictures of the personages and incidents of her official life during the ten years from 1883 to 1893. They have also just ready Professor John E. McFadyen's work on "Old Testament Criticism and the Christian Church," which is said to contain the "Higher Criticism" controversy in a nutshell, in such a form as to be as readily understood by lay as well as clerical readers. They will publish at once "The Spirit in Man—Sermons and Selections," a volume of hitherto unpublished writings by Dr. Horace Bushnell; also, a work on "Our Government—National and Local," by Professor James A. James, of Northwestern University, and Professor Albert H. Sanford, of Stevens Point (Wis.) Normal School.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have just ready Dr. James A. Henshall's entertaining volume on the "Bass, Pike, Perch and Others," with illustrations by Charles F. W. Mielatz and Martin Justice. Two weeks hence another important addition will be made to The American Sportsman's Library, which Caspar Whitney is editing—"Big Game Fishes." In this volume Charles F. Holder describes the Tarpon, Tuna, Jew Fish, Black Sea Bass and others of the great oceanic game fishes, and his book is illustrated with colored plates. At about the same time they will publish new editions of a work on "Building Superintendence," by T. M. Clark; and of Dr. Francis H. Williams's work on "The Roentgen Rays in Medicine and Surgery," to which considerable additions have been made; also, "Trapper Jim," an excellent outdoor book for boys, by Edwin Sandys, the author of the volume on "Upland Game Birds" in the American Sportsman's Library.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

The prices of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded in this list by a double asterisk **, and the word net follows the price. The prices of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. The prices of net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk, and the word net follows the price. ~~**~~

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (quarto: under 30 cm.); O. (octavo: 25 cm.); D. (duodecimo: 20 cm.); S. (septimo: 17½ cm.); T. (quadro: 15 cm.); Tt. (tredecimo: 12½ cm.); Fe. (forty-mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Abbott, G. F. The tale of a tour in Macedonia. [N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co.,] 1903. 7+343 p. il. O. cl., **$5 net.

The tour described was undertaken by Mr. G. F. Abbott, of Emmanuel College, Cambridge, under the auspices of that University, with a view to the collection of materials for a work on Macedonian folk-lore, to be issued shortly. The present volume contains the author's impressions of the country, and presents a vivid picture of the social and political conditions prevailing therein at the time of the tour.

Abruzzi, (Duke of the,) [Luigi Amedeo of Savoy.] On the Polar Star in the Arctic sea, by His Royal Highness, Luigi Amedeo of Savoy, Duke of the Abruzzi; with the statements of Commander U. Cagni upon the sledge expedition to 86° 34' north and of Dr. A. Cavalli Molinelli upon his return to the Bay of Teplitz; tr. by W: Le Queux. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1903. 2 v., 16+346+6; 345-702+6 p. il. por. maps, Q. cl., **$12.50 net.

The object of the expedition of the Polar Star was to sail as far to the north as possible along some coast-line, and then to travel on sledges towards the Pole from the place where the winter had been passed. The Pole was not reached, but the sledge expedition, led by Commander Cagni, pushed on to a latitude which no man had previously attained, and proved that with determination and sturdy men, and a number of well-selected dogs, the frozen Arctic Ocean can actually be crossed to the highest latitude. These two very handsome volumes, profusely illustrated from photographs, give an account of the whole expedition by the explorers themselves. The expedition started in 1899 on a four years' cruise.

Adams, C: Francis, ed. Life in a New England town, 1787, 1788: diary of J: Quincy Adams while a student in the office of Theophilus Parsons at Newburyport. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1903. [Myz.] 204 p. por. 8°, cl., **$2 net.

Blumenthal, Count Leonhardt v. Journals of Field-Marshal Count Von Blumenthal for 1866 and 1870-71; ed. by Count Albrecht Von Blumenthal; tr. by A. D. Gillespie-Adison. [N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co.,] 1903. 4+347 p. por. map, O. cl., $5.

These journals of the great Prussian Field-Marshal were written by him to serve as notes for further memoirs. Although, therefore, they do not claim to be in any way complete works, they present a vivid and interesting picture of the daily work and thought of the famous chief of the staff that they form a valuable record of the stirring times to which they relate.

Boone, H: Burnham, and Brown, Kenneth. The Redfields succession: a novel. N. Y., Harper, 1903. [My.] c. 4+318 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

The scenes of this story are laid chiefly in Virginia, and give an accurate and entertaining account of Virginia country life. The principal characters are a Southern girl and an impecunious New Yorker, who is a fine fellow at bottom and descendant of an old Virginia family. There is an exciting contest over the will made by his uncle, who owned the hand-some estate of Redfields, and there are many turns in the plot before the final dénouement.

Breckinridge, Sophonisha P. Legal tender: a study in English and American monetary history. Chic., University of Chicago Press, 1903. c. 17+181 p. O. (University of Chicago Press, decennial publications, 2d ser., v. 7.) cl., *$2 net.

To this time no lawyer, nor any economist, has ever searched out the origin and development of legal tender in English institutional history. This important task has been carried out in a most painstaking and accurate way by Miss Breckinridge. She finds the origin of the power in the prerogative of the crown, and traces its subsequent history in Great Britain, in the American Colonies, the Confederation, the Constitutional Convention of 1789, and in the United States to the present time.

British Museum. A guide to the early Christian and Byzantine antiquities in the Department of British and mediaeval antiquities; printed by order of the trustees. N. Y., Oxford Univ. Press, (Amer. Branch,) 1903. 12+116 p. il. pls., O. bds., 35 c.

Copus, Rev. J. E. ["Cuthbert," pseud.] Harry Russell, a Rockland college boy. N. Y., Benziger Bros., 1903. c. 229 p. il. D. cl., 85 c.

The young hero is first seen in the streets of New York, selling newspapers, and fighting the battles of a little lame girl in the same line of business. His chivalry creates a liking for him in the hearts of a New York lawyer and a prominent business man, and they offer him an education. He is placed in the Rockland College, a Catholic school. His interesting career here is depicted, and it is related that he and the lame girl are cousins, and heirs to a fortune.

"In writing this book I have had constantly in mind the needs of the student. I have tried, therefore, to tell the story of commerce in a systematic manner, in order that the reader may get clear-cut and accurate pictures of the commercial growth and decay of separate nations, and an understanding of the forces, industrial, racial, and climatic, which have contributed to the steady expansion of the world's trade."—Preface.

Wilson, A. F. The wars of peace; il. by H. C. Ireland. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1903. [My.] c. 3+392 p. D. cl., **$1.50.

A novel in which the leading subject is trusts and their consequences. Albion Hardy, a successful and immensely ambitious financier, organizes an industrial combination which causes much suffering and disaster, and eventually alienates his only son, who, declining to enter the "Trust" withdraws his capital from his father's business, and buys a small mill and attempts to manage it according to his own ideas. The destruction of his mill and his rescue is one of the dramatic incidents. There is abundant love interest.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

MAY 16, 1903.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

POSTAL INTERFERENCE WITH PUBLISHERS.

It would perhaps be unkind to suggest, in view of the scandals in the Post Office Department which have been unearthed by Postmaster-General Payne, that if the Department would give more attention to internal administration and devote less time to harrying publishers by petty unnecessary regulations, it might be better for all concerned; but we shall be so unkind, in the hope that the present investigation into postal abuses may go so far as to lead to some reform in external as well as internal relations. The inherent difficulty is that the Post Office Department has become a huge bureaucracy, tied up in a tangle of red tape which is no more to the interest of the postal service than of the public. The Assistant Postmasters-General follow along in administrative ruts, and a new Postmaster-General finds himself so tied by office traditions that he cannot free the Department from them without withdrawing from other and larger duties the time which these demand. But now that postal abuses have become the important subject of the moment, the Postmaster-General may well give time to the cure of these as well as of internal abuses. No private express or postal business could hold its trade for a month under the conditions and abuses imposed upon publishers by the Post Office Department; but we have been so accustomed, under the law which makes Post Office business a government monopoly, to consider that there is no remedy for such abuses by government administration, that publishers have simply protested and thereafter held their peace. They cannot well do otherwise, for the value of their wares depends upon prompt delivery to subscribers, and the government machinery is the only method practicable; if the publisher does not conform in every jot and tittle to absurd postal regulations he must suffer the extreme penalty of having his publications "held up" in the post office of publication, with the chance of having his business destroyed. If there is no relief, it will be absolutely necessary for newspaper publishers to league themselves together in a postal reform organization in opposition to present Post Office methods.

The excuse usually given for these vexatious regulations is that periodical publications are carried at a loss, and therefore that the lines should be drawn as closely as possible. But what these regulations do is not to suppress "illegitimate" publications, so-called, which can conform themselves to any kind of regulation, but to embarrass the publishers of recognized and fully "legitimate" periodicals, in the ordinary administration of their business. No censorship in the world has undertaken such minute and annoying regulation of private business as has the United States Post Office Department. This journal was among the sufferers by the latest freak of the Department, in enforcing to the fraction of a centimeter a regulation that advertisements must be of the same size as the pages of the publication. In our own case, as in the case of several other journals, a number containing an insert page which was about one-eighth of an inch shorter than the other pages was "held up" in the New York Post Office for several days under instructions from Washington. The Department had previously "held up" publications which put some advertising in the middle instead of at the front or back, which pasted a color print on an advertising page, although pasted prints were permitted in reading matter; which put a special cover with special title on special numbers; which selected for sample copies an issue of special attractiveness—but the list of absurdities is too long to print here. Perhaps the first step in forming an association, if that be necessary to correct postal abuses, will be to establish a museum of postal absurdities—which might afterward be made an exhibit at St. Louis, parallel to other curiosities exhibited by the Department itself.

Although these ridiculous regulations have nothing to do with the price of postage, publishers might be better off in paying a rate which would cover the cost of transmission, provided such rate were made general to all periodicals, than to attempt to do business under the present censorship, which makes the second-class rates of one cent a pound the excuse for these botherations. But the Ketcham bill, introduced into the House of Representatives on February 23, and which, it is said, will be pressed at the next session of Congress, would only make the matter worse. The purposes of the Ketcham bill is to divide "mailable matter of the second class" into two subclasses, the first to embrace the "daily, semi-weekly, and tri-weekly periodicals published for the dissemination of information of a public character," at one cent per pound, the second sub-class to include "all other periodical publications published as frequently as four times a year," at four cents per pound. This scheme simply multiplies vexation by introducing a new line of division even more troublesome than those which have gone before. What is needed is a common sense American system which shall sweep away all excuse for interference by the Post Office Department with the private business of periodical publishers, and require all periodicals, whether issued once a day or once a year, to pay the fair average cost of postal business, perhaps coupled with a rate for books and other printed matter—for there is little reason why books and other printed matter should not be included under the same general rate. Almost any system would be "less worse" than the present absurd general complication

THE AUTHOR OF "THE JOURNAL OF ARTHUR STIRLING."

ARTHUR STIRLING's disappearance, described by several New York newspapers last June as a probable suicide, and followed after a lapse of several months by the publication of a book entitled "The Journal of Arthur Stirling," proves to have been a hoax perpetrated by Upton Sinclair.

With the aid of two or three mischievous young friends, Mr. Sinclair convinced some reporters that a young poet had drowned himself because of the discouragement resulting from his inability to find a publisher who would take his masterpiece.

Satisfied with the result of his hoax, Mr. Sinclair has stepped forward to expose himself. In an article written for this week's Independent, under the heading of "My Cause," he declares that having succeeded in accumulating $1000 he purposes retiring from society for three years to devote himself to writing the first volume of what he intends to be the greatest of all American novels.

LADIES' NIGHT AT THE BOOK-SELLERS' LEAGUE.

MERELY to say that the Ladies' Night given at the Booksellers' League on the evening of May 13 was a success would not be doing the subject full justice. Well aware of the many enjoyable and successful dinners given by the League during the past ten years, we think we are well within the truth if we say that this was the most successful of all the entertainments ever given under the auspices of the League. If any one was doubtful of the success of the affair before the evening on which it took place, those doubts were dispelled an hour before the company of upwards of one hundred and fifty men and women took their places in the brilliantly illuminated dining room—every face bright with expectancy and good humor.

After the excellent dinner of nine courses had been discussed, the president, Mr. Cass Richardson, in an admirable short address welcomed the guests. He justified the action of the League in providing this entertainment for the ladies, because without the patronage of the ladies the bookseller might be obliged to go without a dinner himself. He then gave a humorous illustration of what he meant, by describing a day's experience in a bookstore at which three men bought three books, the total sum of which amounted to ninety cents, on which the profit was thirty cents, while all day long a stream of women passed in and out of the store making generous purchases in its every department.

Mr. Richardson then introduced as the first speaker Mr. Simeon Ford, who in his characteristic manner described how he was inveigled into the paths of authorship and how his book "A Few Remarks," which is shortly to be brought out by Doubleday, Page & Co., came to be written. "This book, he said, "will be so arranged that it may be used as a paper weight, stove lifter, waffle iron, egg beater, sleep inducer and cat destroyer. In addition to all this, it will contain the cream of my after dinner speeches—slightly curdled and cheesy, but warranted to cure the blues, remove warts and bunions, brighten the intellect and touch up the liver. Every customer who makes affidavit that he has read the book will receive an endurance medal and a coupon, which, when presented at my bar, accompanied by five cents, will entitle him to a glass of beer."

Mrs. V. M. Coryell next entertained the company by rendering several selections on the violin with rare artistic execution. William Eleroy Curtis, the author of "The True Thomas Jefferson," "The Turk and His Lost Provinces," etc., who spent many years in the Orient, gave an interesting account of conditions in Turkey and of the outlook in Macedonia. Mrs. Coryell, with charming readiness again responded to a request for more music, after which Benjamin Chapin entertained the company with his impersonation of Abraham Lincoln, in which part he was made up so true to the original as for a moment to be startling in its reality. Mr. Chapin for about three-quarters of an hour gave a reading (if such his acting the part he assumes may be called,) from Lincoln's history, beginning with his speech to his neighbors on leaving Springfield after his first election to the Presidency, then giving a glimpse of his home life in Washington, and, finally, a display of his skill of controlling and directing his powerful contemporaries. Mr. Chapin in height, make-up and voice is said to imitate his subject as faithfully as possible. He certainly has the power to stir his bearers to deep sympathy with "Old Abe."

Among the guests from out of town we noticed Mr. and Mrs. Fleming H. Revell, of Chicago, and Mr. H. S. Hutchinson, of New Bedford, Mass. The Entertainment Committee—Charles E. Butler, F. D. Lacy, W. G. Preston, and W. H. Parker—as well as the officers of the League certainly deserve great credit for the excellent manner in which every detail of the entertainment was managed. As a souvenir each lady received an attractive little volume of poems or essays, presented by different publishing houses, in each one of which was placed a silk ribbon book mark inscribed in gold letters "Booksellers' League Ladies' Night, May 13, 1903." In passing around the after-dinner cigars the ladies also were not overlooked, a special brand of cigar having been secured for this purpose.

FURTHER CANADIAN CUSTOMS REGULATIONS.

IN addition to the requirements of the Canadian Custom House, we are informed that exporters must hereafter write, print or stamp on the face or back of all their invoices, together with the form now in use, the following notice:

"Whereas, German goods are subject to a surtax in Canada, I certify that none of the articles included in this invoice are the produce or manufacture of Germany and that the chief value of none of said articles was produced in Germany; save and except all articles opposite which the word 'Germany' is written on this invoice."

Signature.....

Exporter.

Both certificates must be signed by a member or official of the firm sending the goods to Canada. The above certificate may be added as the last clause in the certificates heretofore authorized or may be certified to separately on the invoice.

THE POSTAL PROGRESS LEAGUE.

THE POSTAL PROGRESS LEAGUE will hold a meeting at the rooms of the Aldine Association on the afternoon of May 22, at two o'clock, to discuss matters of interest and importance to publishers and all who use the mails to any extent. The Postal Progress League is an association incorporated under the laws of Massachusetts whose ultimate aim is the widest practical extension of the sphere of the Post Office, and its most economical and efficient administration. Some of its immediate objects are the reclassification of mail matter on the basis of cost of the service rendered; the reduction of postal rates; the enlargement of our parcels post; the extension of domestic rates to foreign business, etc. James L. Cowles, of Farmington, Conn., is the secretary.

THE MANUSCRIPT SOCIETY.

HEINRICH MEYN, who a week ago was elected president of the Manuscript Society, of New York, whose purpose is to produce unpublished works of American composers, resigned May 11 at the first meeting of the new board of directors, and Frank L. Sealy, who has been first vice-president, was chosen in his place. It was vigorously denied that the recent stories about factional troubles in the organization had anything to do with the resignation. The directors decided to give up the society's present room at 26 East Twenty-third Street during the summer to cut down expenses. They also decided that efforts ought to be made to get composers who are members of the society to submit manuscripts for production next winter. Not enough manuscripts were sent in last season, and the programmes at the society's concerts had to be filled in with other compositions.

BOSTON'S OLD CORNER BOOKSTORE TO BE REMOVED.

BOSTON's historic landmarks are rapidly making way for commerce. A short time ago the contractors attacked the Hancock tavern, for a time the home of the man whose bold signature appears on the Declaration of Independence. Next, Boston was shocked to hear that the Boston Museum is to be razed in June. Now the whole book world will be surprised to learn that the Old Corner Bookstore, one of the oldest in the United States, is to be swept away.

A protest is heard from the members of the Bostonian Society. Curtis Guild, the president, father of Lieutenant-Governor Guild, calls it "the work of vandals," and is striving to arouse public opinion to preserve the relics, but his protests are falling upon deaf ears.

The Hancock tavern stood upon valuable ground where an addition to a skyscraper is to be built. The Boston Museum is to give place to a big business block. The Old Corner Bookstore, standing at the corner of Washington and School Streets, is on very valuable land, and a new building will bring higher rents than the interesting but antiquated and inconvenient relic.

This building was erected in 1712, thirty years before the original Faneuil Hall, by Dr. Thomas Crease. He kept a small apothecary shop in one room on the ground floor. The building was used for different purposes until 1828, when Carter & Hendee started a small bookstore there.

In 1832 William C. Ticknor, the famous bookseller and publisher, came into the firm, and from that time on the fame of the old store grew apace. James T. Fields entered the firm in 1845, the firm becoming Ticknor & Fields.

From the very first the store was the rendezvous of the ministers, authors and readers of the city. There was a sunny back yard where the clergy of the city used to meet every week, and where Emerson, Hawthorne, Holmes and Longfellow used to meet frequently. The shy and eccentric Thoreau was often seen here.

Hawthorne corrected the proofs of "The Scarlet Letter" at an old desk still in the store. Thackeray, Dickens, Matthew Arnold, Paul Bourget and many other European celebrities loitered among its books. Lucy Larcom, Louisa May Alcott, Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe, Mrs. Mary Livermore and other clever women shed the light of their presence among its dusty bookshelves.

"The Old Corner Bookstore" corporation will remove on or about July 1 to 27-29 Bromfield Street, on the corner of Province Street, retaining the old name, and carrying with it, we hope some of the old literary associations connected with the historic corner.

THE ALEXANDRIAN LIBRARY NOT DESTROYED BY THE ARABS.

A CHAPTER is devoted by Dr. A. J. Butler in his "The Arab Conquest of Europe," recently published by the Oxford University Press, to the question whether or not the Arabs, upon the capture of the city, burned or did not burn the great Library of Alexandria. The story as it stands in Abū 'l Farāj is well known, and runs as follows: "There was at this time a man, who won high renown among the Muslims, named John the Grammarian. He was an Alexandrian, and apparently had been a Coptic priest, but was deprived of his office, owing to some heresy, by a council of bishops held at Babylon. He lived to see the capture of Alexandria by the Arabs, and made the acquaintance of 'Amr, whose clear and active mind was no less astonished than delighted with John's intellectual acuteness and great learning. Emboldened by 'Amr's favor, John one day remarked: 'You have examined the whole city, and have set your seal on every kind of valuable: I make no claim for aught that is useful to you, but things useless to you may be of service to us.' 'What are you thinking of?' said 'Amr. 'The books of wisdom,' said John, 'which are in the imperial treasures.' 'That,' replied 'Amr, 'is a matter on which I can give no order without the authority of the Caliph.' A letter accordingly was written, putting the question to Omar, who answered: 'Touching the books you mention, if what is written in them agrees with the Book of God, they are not required: if it disagrees, they are not desired. Destroy them therefore.' On receipt of this judgment, 'Amr accordingly ordered the books to be distributed among the baths of Alexandria and used as fuel for heating: it took six months to consume them. 'Listen and wonder,' adds the writer."

Dr. Butler shows "that the story makes its first appearance more than five hundred years after the event to which it relates; that on analysis the details of the story resolve into absurdities; that the principal actor in the story, viz., John Philoponus, was dead long before the Saracens invaded Egypt; that of the two great public libraries to which the story could refer, (a) the Museum Library perished in the conflagration caused by Julius Cæsar, or, if not, then at a date not less than four hundred years anterior to the Arab conquest; while (b) the Serapeum Library either was removed prior to the year 391, or was then dispersed or destroyed, so that in any case it disappeared two and a half centuries before the conquest; that fifth, sixth, and early seventh century literature contains no mention of the existence of any such library; that if, nevertheless, it had existed when Cyrus set his hand to the treaty surrendering Alexandria, yet the books would almost certainly have been removed—under the clause permitting the removal of valuables—during the eleven months' armistice which intervened between the signature of the convention and the actual entry of the Arabs into the city; and that if the library had been removed, or if it had been destroyed, the almost contemporary historian and man of letters, John of Nikiou, could not have passed over its disappearance in total silence."

HOME SKETCHES OF ESSEX CO., N. Y.

MRS. JOSEPH COOK, in response to an inquiry as to whether she intended to reprint some copies of Mr. Cook's "Home Sketches of Essex County, N. Y.," from the original manuscript, writes as follows: "No; I am not republishing Dr. Cook's 'Home Sketches.' You know it appeared in book and pamphlet form at the time it was written in 1859, and although it is a rare book, still there are some copies in existence, and it has been largely drawn from in writing the history of that region."

OBITUARY NOTES.

DR. RUFUS OGDEN MASON died at his home, 348 West Fifty-eighth Street, New York, on the 12th inst., in his seventy-third year. He was born in Sullivan, N. H., and was graduated from Dartmouth College in 1854, and from the College of Physicians and Surgeons in New York in 1859. Dr. Mason was almost as well known as an author as he was as a physician, and some of his books are: "Sketches and Impressions, Musical, Theatrical and Social, Including a Sketch of the Philharmonic Society of New York," 1887; "Telepathy and the Subliminal Self," 1897; "Hypnotism and Suggestion in Therapeutics," 1901.

RICHARD HENRY STODDARD, "a poet pure and simple, a singer of beauty and feeling," all but the last of the great generation which from the glory of our literature, passed away on the morning of the 12th inst. Grief at the loss of his wife and son, who died less than a year ago, rheumatism and other ills incident to old age all conspired against him, and when a week ago he took to his bed his friends knew the end would not be far off. Mr. Stoddard was born in Hingham, Mass., July 2, 1825, the son of Rufus Stoddard, a sea captain. When the son was a child the father was lost at sea. His mother married again in a few years and removed to New York City, where Stoddard attended public school. At the age of fifteen he became an office boy for a law firm. He began at that age to write poetry and try to have it published, but his verses were rejected by the newspapers. After a short stay in the law office he became an apprentice in the office of one of the short-lived newspapers of that day. When the newspaper failed he was employed for a little time in a tailor shop, and also tried to learn the trade of a blacksmith. Then he was apprenticed to learn the trade of iron moulding. He worked at it until he was twenty-one years old. While engaged at his trade he wrote many poems. They were published in 1849 in a volume entitled "Footprints," of which one copy was actually sold. He contributed some verses which were published by Lewis Gaylord Clarke in The Knickerbocker, but were not paid for. In 1852, however, he became a regular contributor to that publication, and began literary work in earnest. A year earlier he had married Elizabeth Barstow, who herself became a writer of poems and novels. In 1853, through the influence of Nathaniel Hawthorne, he obtained a place in the Custom House, and he held it until 1870. For three years he was a clerk in the Dock Department, and later was City Librarian. His friendship for Bayard Taylor led at one time to his connection with The Tribune as a writer of reviews; he was literary reviewer for The World from 1860 to 1870, and after 1880 he held that position on The Mail and Express. He also edited The Aldine, a publication devoted to illustrations, which was discontinued. A volume of Stoddard's poems was brought out in 1852. In the following year he published "Adventures in Fairy Land" for young people, and in 1857 his book of "Songs for Summer." Among his other works are: "Town and Country," 1857; "Life, Travels and Books of Alexander von Humboldt," 1860; "The King's Bell," 1862; "The Story of Little Red Riding Hood," in verse, 1864; "The Children in the Wood," in verse, 1865; "Abraham Lincoln: a Horatian Ode," 1865; "Putnam, the Brave," 1869; "The Book of the East," containing his later poems, 1867. He edited, among other works, "The Loves and Heroines of the Poets," 1861; "The Late English Poets," 1865; enlarged editions of Rufus W. Griswold's "Poets and Poetry of America," 1872, and "Female Poets of America," 1874. He edited several annuals and wrote numerous monographs. His latest book was "Under the Evening Lamp." A posthumous volume, edited by Ripley Hitchcock, is to be brought out by A. S. Barnes & Co.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

LIKE most world's workers, The World's Work has grown weary of its strenuousness, and will have a "World at Play Number" for June. In a hundred ways and with many of its characteristically superb illustrations it will tell how to camp in many out-of-the-way places; how to climb mountains and how to sail boats; where and how to fish or to hunt with a camera; and many other things, such as touring on trolley cars, or how to build log-cabin summer homes.

The Household and The Ledger Monthly have been merged into one magazine, to be called The Household Ledger, which will be published by the United Publishing Company, Union Square, New York. This combines The Household, started in 1868 at Brattleboro, Vt., and the old New York Ledger, originally published by Robert Bonner. The United Publishing Company succeeds The Household Company and The Ledger Publishing Company, which go out of existence.

A DAILY newspaper for which the news is supplied entirely by wireless telegraphy has been established on the island of Catalina, a tourists' resort in the Pacific. Catalina is fifty-two miles from Los Angeles, and the Times of that place issues the Wireless as an auxiliary publication for the purpose of reaching Times subscribers on incoming steamers before their arrival at the mainland. The paper contains foreign and local news, and an epitomized bulletin of current events—all sent from the mainland by wireless.

THE May issue of The Printing Art, the sumptuous magazine published in the interest of the printer and book manufacturer by the University Press of Cambridge, Mass., is a particularly attractive one, and of particular interest to the publisher who takes an interest in the possibilities of the art of printing. Mr. De Vinne concludes his paper on "Pages and Margins," and there are examples of title-pages composed by some of the leading printers in this country, an article on "The Use of Decorative Initials," with examples and a suggestive editorial on "The Test of Printing." Every page almost is an object lesson of what good printing should be like. Here and there a "horrible example" is thrown in we suppose to serve as a warning.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BLUEFIELD, W. VA.—The Moose Book Company has incorporated under the laws of West Virginia to buy, sell, manufacture and conduct in all its departments the business of booksellers and stationers. The company is capitalized for $10,000. The incorporators are S. F. Moose and W. R. Moose, of Lynchburg, Va.; R. C. Blackstock, S. M. Barnard and J. W. Ruff, of Bluefield, W. Va.

CAMDEN, N. J.—The Philadelphia Bookstore Company, one of the feeders of the Booklovers' Library, with its principal office in the New Jersey Corporation Guarantee and Trust Company Building, has been incorporated to deal in books. The capital is reported to be $320,000, and the incorporators are: Seymour Eaton, John E. Bryant, Frederick W. Speirs, R. T. Eaton and J. C. Ziegler.

CHICAGO, ILL.—We are informed that George W. Ogilvie & Co., publishers, did not make application for a receiver because they were financially embarrassed, but through the unaccountable acts of one of Mr. Ogilvie's partners. Mr. Ogilvie writes that on April last this partner had a statement of the condition of the business. Between the 10th and 17th he verified it so far as the inventory of the stock on hand was concerned, and on April 17 he verified the statement of the condition of the business from the account books, and on that date (17th) at Mr. Ogilvie's solicitation made a personal examination of said books. Notwithstanding this, on the 22d, when making application for a receiver, he made an affigavit that Mr. Ogilvie refused to furnish him with either an inventory or a statement of the affairs of the concern. Mr. Ogilvie asserts that the concern is perfectly solvent, having according to the estimate of the partner referred to assets of $65,000 and liabilities of about $5000, with enough cash in the bank to settle every dollar of the firm's indebtedness as it appeared on the books at the time the statement was made.

NEW YORK CITY.—At a meeting of the creditors of Bangs & Co., held on May 14, at the Everett House, it was learned that the liabilities of the firm are $30,000 and the assets about $5000. After some discussion the assignee was instructed to liquidate Mr. Bangs's affairs. No offer of settlement was made.

NEW YORK CITY.—The business known as The American Home Library Company, owned by W. R. Hearst and R. H. Russell, has been sold to the former manager, Howard Wilford Bell, the publisher of the Unit Library. The company is now located in the Law Building, at 259 Fifth Avenue.

NEW YORK CITY.—Hugh A. Bayne and Benjamin F. Feiner, rival receivers appointed in the U. S. District Court and the Supreme Court for the Abbey Press, both qualified last week by filing bonds. Mr. Feiner took possession early on May 8. It was reported that a mortgage and mortgage agreement for $26,000 covers all the assets. The assets consist of fixtures, $1075; stock, $13,456; accounts, $42,793; cuts, plates, etc., $59,205; contracts for advertising space, $24,000. In response to the inquiries of some of the creditors as to what had become of the insurance money recently adjusted at $33,000, and why it does not appear on the list of assets, Everett D. Barlow, attorney for the company, said that the insurance money had been absorbed in running the business, the company having had to realize on the policies at a sacrifice to get money to run the business. If the insurance companies had paid promptly, he said, the Abbey Press would be going to-day.

NEW YORK CITY.—Henry Holt & Co. have incorporated under the old firm name, with a capital stock of $250,000. Henry Holt is president, Roland Holt, vice-president, Joseph Vogelius, treasurer, and E. N. Bristol, secretary. Mr. Charles Holt has withdrawn from the business.

NEW YORK CITY.—Lemcke & Buechner, at the request of the trustees of the Columbia University Press, have made a contract to maintain and conduct the Columbia University Press Bookstore, with a branch at the Horace Mann School, beginning with July 1. The bookstore will be fully equipped with bibliographical helps, students' text-books, new books of interest to teachers and students, the publications of the University Press, periodicals, stationery, drawing and laboratory instruments, and miscellaneous goods, such as a university community requires.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Prang Educational Co. have removed from Boston to 5 W. 18th Street.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

HURST & Co. have published Bell's "Wee Macgregor" in four styles.

JAMES POTT & Co. have in preparation a new book by Elliott Flower, author of "Policeman Flynn."

RAND, McNALLY & Co. will publish early in June a political novel by Philip Payne, of Chicago, entitled "The Mills of Man."

B. W. HUEBSCH announces the third edition of "A Book of Meditations," by Edward Howard Griggs. The book was published December 1, 1902.

METHUEN & Co., London, announce a re-issue of Edward FitzGerald's "Euphranor," described by him as "a dialogue of youth," which has never been reprinted separately.

W. B. CLARKE Co., Boston, have just ready the "Letters and Diary of John Rowe, Boston Merchant, 1759-1779," with the exception of the year 1763, edited by Annie Rowe Cunningham, with extracts from a paper written for the Massachusetts Historical Society by Edward Lillie Pierce.

THOMAS WHITTAKER will publish at once a work by J. P. Kingsland, entitled "The Man Called Jesus." The book, which appeared a few months ago in London, is making a deep impression in England, where it is hailed as a notably fresh and candid study of the character of Christ.

THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO PRESS has just published a work entitled "Legal Tender—a study in English and American monetary history," by Sophonisba P. Breckinridge, who traces the origin and development of legal tender in English institutional history, and is said to have "entirely uprooted some long-cherished, but inaccurate, convictions in regard to legal tender."

THE Board of School Libraries of Illinois recently selected "The Story of Ab," by Stanley Waterloo, now published by Doubleday, Page & Co., to go permanently into the higher grades. It received the unanimous vote of the board as the only existent book, conveying, together with the fascination of a thrilling story, a graphic and thoroughly scientific account of the conditions of prehistoric life.

NORRIS's story, "The Pit," is being dramatized by W. A. Brady, and will be produced under Mr. Frohman's direction by Wilton Lackaye, who will be supported by a prominent English actress. Already an English dramatization has been attempted, and the publishers, Doubleday, Page & Company, have gone into the courts to restrain the Imperial Theatre in London from producing it.

THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY publish today a first venture in fiction, entitled "The Main Chance," by Meredith Nicholson, who is known to poets as a poet, and to sociologists as the author of "The Hoosiers." Mr. Nicholson's new work is a story of middle-west city life of to-day, with which as a native of Indiana he is thoroughly acquainted, and which he treats with cheerful outlook and humorous introspection.

FRED A. DIBBLE, who for the past two years has been manager of the firm of Vinson & Korner, booksellers of Cleveland, has just taken the management of the office of Ray D. Lillibridge, of New York. Mr. Lillibridge's office handles the publicity and advertising details of such concerns as the United States Steel Corporation, Rand Drill Co., Otis Elevator Co., Stanley Electric Manufacturing Co. and Dodge & Day.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. announce that they have completed arrangements by which they will become the exclusive American agents of Messrs. George Routledge & Sons, of London. During the last year the Routledge firm has undergone a complete reorganization, and will continue its work with increased facilities. They will bring out an unillustrated library edition of the historical novels of G. P. R. James, in twenty-five volumes.

WILLIAM WOOD & Co. have just brought out the twenty-first edition of John J. Thomas's "American Fruit Culturist," revised and enlarged by William H. S. Wood. This old standard has been kept up to date both with respect to the newer varieties of fruits and also the improvements in cultivation—in all the details, in fact, pertaining to the science and art of fruit growing. The text is illustrated with over eight hundred accurate figures.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. have just ready "How to Make School Gardens," by H. D. Hemenway. There is a strong movement in this country to found all nature work on this study, as in Russia and other European countries, where no school can receive State aid unless it has a garden attached. The author is an authority and director of the Hartford School of Horticulture, and he covered all sides of the work from spring to autumn, and even green-house growing and grafting.

THE ROBERT CLARKE COMPANY, Cincinnati, announce that they will publish in the winter of 1905 a work that Professor Warren K. Moorehead is preparing on the arts of the American aborigines in pre-Columbian times. The work will be in two volumes, entitled "The Stone Age," and will be an archaeological encyclopædia of the implements, ornaments, etc., of the prehistoric tribes of the United States. It will contain more than a thousand figures, illustrating some five thousand variations of types.

HENRY HOLT & Co. will publish shortly "Easy French," by Dr. Victor E. François, of the University of Michigan, and Professor Pierre F. Gérard, of Girard College, who aim to avoid the more hackneyed selections that have figured in previous readers, and yet to include only very easy ones from good authors. The book will also contain a vocabulary and composition exercises. They have nearly ready "Vos's Essentials of German," which is intended as a short road to the acquiring of a fair working knowledge of German.

DODD, MEAD & Co. have secured a new story by Max Pemberton, to be entitled "A Daughter of the States." The story opens in mid-ocean, and much of the action takes place upon the sea. It closes in England. "A Daughter of the States" is in a vessel bound for England. The boat strikes another and goes down. The "daughter" is saved by a vessel carrying munitions of war to Venezuela, which also rescues the hero. They come near Martinique during the eruption of Mont Pelée, and are pursued by a Venezuelan gunboat.

D. APPLETON & Co. will publish on the 23d inst. "Castle Omeragh," a new novel, by F. Frankfort Moore; also, "The Sins of a Saint," a novel by J. R. Aitken, author of "Love in its Tenderness," etc. They will bring out on the 5th of June Stockton's posthumous novel, "The Captain's Toll-Gate," with a memoir by Mrs. Stockton; "The Autobiography of Joseph Le Conte;" "The Story of a Grain of Wheat," by William C. Edgar, editor of the Northwestern Miller; and "Twixt God and Mammon," a novel by the late William E. Tirebuck, with an introduction by Hall Caine.

AN exhibition of eggs of the birds of Maryland in the window of the William J. C. Dulany Company, 8 East Baltimore Street, Baltimore, Md., has attracted much attention. The collection belongs to Percy T. Blogg, secretary and treasurer of the Alpha Photo Engraving Company, and the eggs were gathered by him when he was a student of the Polytechnic Institute. It is probably among the best collections of the kind in Baltimore and is valued at between $300 and $400. The eggs are being exhibited in connection with a display of books of nature, arranged by R. F. Blogg, manager of the retail department of Dulany's.

THE LOTHROP PUBLISHING COMPANY will publish this summer a historical romance of Athens, in the time of Pericles, entitled "Gorgo," by Charles K. Gaines, Professor of Greek in St. Lawrence University, Canton, N. Y. The book gives, without a touch of pedantry or heaviness, a wonderfully vivid, attractive picture of a bygone civilization and shows the causes underlying the downfall of Athens. Great figures like Alcibiades, Socrates and Pericles walk through it, and the atmosphere of the time is caught so that the illusion of reality is perfect. There is an entrancing love story and plenty of intrigue and fighting told so as to stir the blood.

WILLIAM J. HAY, Edinburgh, has in press "A Handbook and Directory of Old Scottish Clock-Makers, from 1540 to 1850, A.D.," compiled from original sources, with notes, by John Smith, who, for a number of years has made a special study of the subject. The volume contains nearly nine hundred entries; and in addition to the location and recorded date of each clock-maker all the information ascertained regarding these craftsmen has been carefully noted, and will form a compendium of useful knowledge regarding the methods and customs of the Hammermen's Incorporations from the sixteenth to the nineteenth centuries. Mr. Hay has also in preparation a work to be entitled "Vanishing Edinburgh and Leith," a pictorial record of some of the historical and picturesque buildings in the streets, closes and district of these two ancient boroughs.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS announce a work entitled "Modern Civic Art—the City Made Beautiful," by Charles Mulford Robinson, author of "Improvement of Towns and Cities," whom certain English critics hailed as the new Ruskin in their review of his earlier book; "Psychology and Common Life," by Professor Frank Sargent Hoffman, of Union College, who selects the most important facts from the great mass of material now accumulated by students of psychical research, describes them in easily-understood language and points out their bearing upon the interest of everyday life; also, "A Political History of Slavery," an account of the slavery controversy from the earliest agitations in the eighteenth century to the close of the Reconstruction period in America, by William Henry Smith, author of "Correspondence of General Arthur St. Clair, Charles Hammond, etc.," with an introduction and biographical sketch by Whitelaw Reid.

BOOKTRADE ASSOCIATIONS.

THE BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE HONORS THE MEMORY OF ERNEST EDWARDS.

At a regular meeting of the Board of Managers of The Booksellers' League, held on Thursday evening, May 7, 1903, Charles A. Burkhardt and W. H. Parker were appointed a committee to draft suitable resolutions of condolence and sympathy on the death of Ernest Edwards and to transmit the same to his family. The following was unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS it has pleased Almighty God to remove from among us our esteemed friend and associate, Mr. Ernest Edwards, it is

Resolved, That in the death of Mr. Ernest Edwards the Booksellers' League and the booktrade at large have lost one of its most distinguished members, one who was always ready to lend a helping hand in any undertaking to further the interests of his calling, and The Booksellers' League in particular owes him a debt of gratitude, therefore be it further

Resolved, That The Booksellers' League extend to his family its deepest sympathy in their bereavement, which it shares with them only in a lesser degree, and a copy of these resolutions be spread in full on the minutes.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line, for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplaced, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

120 In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

120 Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

PUBLISHED THIS WEEK

A New Series of LITTLE NOVELS by FAVORITE AUTHORS. Just Ready

Philosophy 4

By OWEN WISTER

Man Overboard!

By F. MARION CRAWFORD

The new series in which are also announced for early issue GERTRUDE ATHERTON'S Mrs. Pendleton's Four-in-Hand and WINSTON CHURCHILL'S Mr. Keegan's Elopement, opens with a deliciously funny story by OWEN WISTER, of Harvard College life, which is followed by a story of sailor life by F. MARION CRAWFORD, himself an expert navigator.

Cloth, 18mo, illustrated, 50 cents.

A New Novel by the Author of "The Garden of a Commuter's Wife"

People of the Whirlpool

FROM THE EXPERIENCE BOOK OF A COMMUTER'S WIFE

This charming novel, full of the sunny philosophy which made the earlier book by the same author so irresistible, contains the delightful Barbara's observations of the New Yorkers of to-day. Its title is the literal rendering of the early Indian name for dwellers on Manhattan, in reference to the rushing waters of Hell Gate. Its scenes and characters are in part those of the earlier story, now in its fifth edition.

Cloth, 12mo, with eight full-page illustrations, $1.50.

Mr. B. K. BENSON'S New Novel of the Civil War

Old Squire: The Romance of a Black Virginian

"As a fictional historian of war he stands on a plane by himself. He gets breadth of perspective and the movement of large strategy without sacrificing vividness of detail."—The Brooklyn Eagle.

Cloth, 12mo, $1.50.

Mr. PAUL GWYNNE'S New Novel, of racy Spanish individuality

The Pagan at the Shrine

"The book leaves a tremendous impression on you—an impression from which it is impossible to get away, an impression hard to forget. Not only is it strong, deep, and vital; it has a subtle force that acts like a magnet upon your sympathies."—The Boston Herald.

Cloth, 12mo, $1.50.

Mr. BRADLEY GILMAN'S Story of a Modern Church

Ronald Carnaquay: A Commercial Clergyman

"For truthful delineation of character, for delicate humor, we can recall no recent book that compares with this."—The Baltimore Sun.

Cloth, 12mo, $1.50.

Mr. GEORGE CRAM COOK'S dashing Mexican Novel

Roderick Taliasferro: A Story of Maximilian's Empire

"One of the most fascinating romances of the past decade."—Atlanta Journal.

"A vivid story of real dramatic power."—Boston Transcript.

Third Edition. Cloth, 12mo, $1.50.

READY NEXT WEEK

The Kempton-Wace Letters

(Published Anonymously.)

Portrayed together three human documents—those of one woman and two men—and constitute a development of the function and significance of love. The book is almost certain to provoke a good deal of discussion.

Cloth, 12mo, $1.50.

In the Guardianship of God

By FLORA ANNIE STEEL, who is recognized as one of the very best of living story writers, with a knowledge of India as wide and true as Kipling's, expressed with no less of dramatic power and sympathetic insight.

Cloth, 12mo, $1.50.

JUST OUT!

The Land of Joy

BY

Ralph Henry Barbour

If you wish to renew your own youth you should read this delightful story of young life and love. It takes its apt title from Butler :

*"Youth, with swift feet, walks onward in the way;
The land of joy lies all before his eyes."*

The manuscript of this book was submitted to four jaded readers of manuscripts. With one accord they wrote in their reports that they had enjoyed it tremendously and not only advised its publication, but prophesied a great success. Such reports MEAN success.

HOW TO Make School Gardens

By H. D. HEMENWAY

Director of the Hartford School of Horticulture.

A practical manual for both teacher and pupil. Many of the leaders in educational matters wish to make this study the basis of all nature work—as is the case in Russia and other countries, where no school can receive State funds unless it has a garden connected with it.

The idea is a sound and healthy one, since sixty-five per cent. of our exports are farm products; yet thousands of children grow up without knowing anything at all of agriculture. The volume is based on actual experience, and is written in such simple language that it can be readily understood by a child, while its text contains much of value to the expert gardener.

Keep Well

By DR. FLOYD M. CRANDALL

Doctor Crandall, a distinguished New York physician, has been induced by us to write this practical, common-sense book, which if read and regarded would help to do away with much unnecessary illness. We know that an honest, scientific, but popular book of this sort has been greatly needed. It is not intended to step in between the reader and the physician, but to put into plain statement just what your physician has said, and you have forgotten, or would say if you took the time to consult him. The volume is, therefore, a handy guide and cannot fail to help toward health.

Summer Bookselling.

To Retail Booksellers:

While to most people summer means a season of recreation or loafing, to the bookseller it means increased activity and watchfulness to maintain the continuity of business and to bridge over until the fall and holiday season brings relief. If ever the book business requires a thorough knowledge on the part of the principal and his clerks of the character of their constituency, their movements and their likes and their needs, it is in the season during which the traveller, away from home and from the source of supplies, is most dependent upon those who serve him—whether with the necessities or the luxuries of life.

To the bookseller who is in a position to follow the summer traveller to his haunts in the mountains or at the sea-shore the task is much easier than it is for him who is compelled to remain anchored at home; but for both it means foresight in providing stock, and careful and intelligent handling of customers.

One of the most important aids in pushing business during this season is a tempting catalogue of books suitable for shore and mountain reading, such as is prepared by this office in "SUMMER READING." It is prepared with the view of bringing to the special attention of summer visitors the classes of books in which they are most likely to be interested, and of giving attractive foretastes of the delights stored in them.

Such a catalogue should be found serviceable by two classes of the trade: first, by city dealers, who may retain trade by filling orders by mail for the multitudes who go far out of sight of any bookstore, but can be cultivated by the aid of Uncle Sam; and second, by booksellers at or near summer resorts, who desire to pleasantly acquaint summer visitors that there is a bookstore near at hand from which they can be supplied. With such an aid old customers may be retained, and with energy and foresight much new trade can be created.

"SUMMER READING" is about to be published for the twenty-sixth year, and may therefore be looked upon as a regular feature of the trade. With an attractive cover, bearing the special imprint of the dealer, it is adapted for circulation all through the summer, and that, too, at a price which will enable the bookseller with even the most restricted income to make at least a trial of securing trade through its means. The terms for editions with imprint are as follows:

100 copies,	• . . . .	$3 50
250 " . . . . .		8 00
500 " . . . . .		15 00

Directions for shipping should be given with the order. If sent by mail, postage will be charged extra.

Orders for imprint editions should be sent at once, as the edition is limited to the number of copies ordered in advance.

A Word to the Bookseller

NOTE.—It isn't our business to teach you your business.

But we may be able to give you some pointers on selling our books. From time to time we shall make an attempt at it, on this page.

AMONG your regular customers you doubtless have a number who appreciate genuine literature. They are a difficult class to sell to, because of their discriminating powers. They decline to get excited over historical romances, and the best selling novel of the day doesn't appeal to them ten cents' worth. In order to hold their trade you must offer something out of the ordinary in quality. Here are three suggestions aimed at this class of people.

“Youth” is by a man who has suddenly won recognition as the most extraordinary master of picturesque and powerful English now writing fiction. JOSEPH CONRAD is not yet a popular author; that will take time. But both here and in England the serious critics have welcomed him as a new force in letters, and those who are not afraid to prophesy forecast for him a fame above that of Bret Harte or Kipling.

YOUTH. $1.50

It is a genuine pleasure to announce the second edition of PAULINE BRADFORD MACKIE's strange and enthralling story of the Arizona wastes. “The Voice in the Desert” has a distinctive quality of literary achievement, not the sort that a wide public appreciates at once, but the kind that sooner or later wins a sure recognition. That this recognition should have so early a beginning is the most hopeful of signs. “It is the class of novel,” says one authoritative critic (the Brooklyn Eagle), “which in all times and in all countries impresses itself undeniably on the critical conscience as first rate fiction . . . a real American novel of the first class.”

THE VOICE IN THE DESERT. $1.50

“The Joyous Heart,” by VIOLA ROSEBORO', is that triumph of literary magic, the creation in mere words of a living, throbbing, enthralling personality. Since Clara Middleton there has been no woman in fiction with the compelling charm of Vella of the Joyous Heart. Every reader of this story will become an unconscious agent for it. It is the kind of book that people talk about because of the dominant character in it. Here is what one of its readers has been saying in the columns of the Louisville Post:

“We are lifted to a joy in her joyous heart, her instinctive faith in encompassing goodness: in this normal, blithe, and gallant spirit—this splendid, unconscious sanity. The creation of Vella Carruthers is something really worth while—something fine, genuine, and touching.”
